

November 24, 1989

Speech by Premier Ladislav Adamec at the Extraordinary Session of the Czechoslovak
Communist Party Central Committee

Citation:

"Speech by Premier Ladislav Adamec at the Extraordinary Session of the Czechoslovak Communist Party Central Committee", November 24, 1989, Wilson Center Digital Archive, State Central Archive, Prague, CC CPCz record group, W-0154/89. Published in National Security Archive Electronic Briefing Book No. 22. Translated from the Czech by Todd Hammond. <https://wilson-center-digital-archive.dvincitest.com/document/116246>

Summary:

This transcript shows the Czech party elites choosing against violent repression of the mass protests in Wenceslas Square. More clearly than in almost any other Party document, the reasons for nonviolence are spelled out: such a solution would only temporarily "return calm," it would radicalize the youth, "the international support of the socialist countries can no longer be counted on," and "the capitalist states" might react with a "political and economic boycott."

Credits:

This document was made possible with support from Leon Levy Foundation

Original Language:

Czech

Contents: